Distraction Burglaries

The police have reported a widespread increase in bogus callers, with attendant deception burglaries. We have copies of a Home Office booklet 'How to beat the bogus caller' that gives good advice to residents. However, we do not have enough to distribute to the whole parish. If you would like a copy or you know someone who could benefit from having one, pop into 9 Chalklands or contact any Sandon Parish Councillor or HGCA committee member to obtain a copy.

Credit Card Security

You are advised to shield your Pin with your hand when carrying out a transaction. This will help to prevent criminals from noting your number via a tiny camera over your head. Such a camera can be inserted into the shop ceiling with the aid of corrupt employees or coerced individuals. They then use a card cloned from details stolen from your card's magnetic strip to take advantage of the Pin.

As the chip and Pin system can sometimes make these cards difficult to use in the UK, fraudsters often send them to countries where the system has not been introduced, such as the US.

Do not let your card out of your sight when making a transaction. Portable skimming devices such the one shown below can be used to copy the information off your credit card.

Also check to see if there is anything unusual about the chip and Pin terminal. A second keypad can be fitted over the genuine one:

What is an ATM skimming device?

An ATM skimming device is a physical attachment that has been illegally installed onto an ATM to covertly gather customer bank card details together with the corresponding security Personal Identification Number (PIN) to illegally attain funds

How do I identify an ATM skimming device?

An ATM Skimming device may stand out and look ‘out of place’. Some ATM skimming devices may be as small as the top of a pen. Many of these skimming devices can be electronically monitored by the criminal who may be in the vicinity of the ATM.

Photo 2: The side of the box facing the ATM screen has a reflective glassy hole. That's a camera!

Resident's Speed Watch

One of the matters raised at a NAP meeting concerned speeding on the East Hanningfield and Southend roads. As the police do not have the resources to set regular speed traps, they suggested a resident's speed watch.

Two or more residents monitor traffic speed with a speed gun and note the registration numbers of offending cars (could photograph them).

The police write to the car owners, indicating that they exceeded the speed limit in the village on the day in question. It is intended as a means of educating drivers but persistent offenders could be subject to more vigorous enforcement. I can understand that drivers might be inclined to slow down somewhat if they thought that their speed might be monitored.

If it is found that speeding occurs frequently at a particular location and day/time, the police say they will take appropriate direct enforcement action.

The police have expressed a willingness to supply the equipment for the speed watch, train volunteers and help in running it initially.

A training course is currently being organised. If you would like to join in, please get in touch with your Neighbourhood Watch Coordinator.
